This AGGRAND Fertilizer REALLY WORKS! Here are the facts about my hay cutting...

I have been in the cattle business around Cuero, TX, for 10 years. Right now I have about 1,800 acres, plus some lease land, and run more than 200 mother cows who like to eat year around since they are expected to have calves every year so I can make money. Anyone who is in the ranching business knows you need hay if you keep your cows during the winter and that usually means growing, cutting and baling all the hay you can when the weather cooperates.

In the past one of my best "Jigs" Coastal Bermuda hay pastures, a 36-acre patch, that produced 88 big round bales of hay last year, this year this same pasture, even with the dry conditions in our area, yielded 139 big round bales or an INCREASE of 58% more hay. What made this happen was using the natural AGGRAND Fertilizer, 4-3-3, applied after the last cutting at a rate of 2 gallons of AGGRAND mixed in about 25 gallons of water per acre. I sprayed this on myself to save money.

Not only does AGGRAND produce more hay, which is worth a lot of money to me, but it also increases the root development of my grass, improves the nutritional value of this crop, helps to resist the drought that was an issue this year, and builds up the soil quality by increasing the microbial activity and more earthworms in the soil.

The cost of using AGGRAND is about one third or less of using convention fertilizers. Any smart farm and ranch operator, or deer hunter, who wants to be profitable and increase his grass, hay or other crop yield, plus produce a more valuable crop, and take better care of his land, should be using AGGRAND Fertilizer.

There are a lot of cattle operations in Texas and I plan to spread the word about how good AGGRAND is for hay production. If someone is interested in saving money, while growing more hay, please have them call Roy Cusack to get the facts. I would be glad to help any rancher get started using AGGRAND.

Thanks.
